

USCGC ESCANABA (WMEC 907)

"The Spirit Lives On"

Escanaba sailors protect and defend the United States, our way of life and our interests at home and abroad. In all we do, we make risk acceptable decisions, guided by procedure, strengthened by teamwork and anchored in our core values of Honor, Respect and Devotion to Duty. As

Escanaba sailors we are:

Always Improving

We accept that we don't choose the adversity we'll face but we know we're ready and believe that our best will be good enough. We believe in our best, because we see challenge as opportunity and recognize the growth it offers. We value learning, accept mistakes, and use feedback to fuel improvement. WE WILL take warranted risk, encourage on-scene initiative, challenge ourselves in training and demand high standards of performance by one another.

Balanced in Approach

We recognize that the challenges of our mission, needs of our shipmates and support of our loved ones will demand our very best. We understand that to be our best will require constant effort to find balance between the performance of our mission, care for our cutter, growth of our crew, needs of our families and fitness in our spiritual, mental and physical selves. WE WILL be focused on safety, ready to accept warranted risk, thoughtful in our decision-making process, clear on expectations, and willing to ask for help.

Together in Service

We are privileged to wear the uniform and accept the responsibility which comes with it. We understand that together means teamwork and teamwork requires communication, humility, integrity and respect. We know that our loved ones are in this with us and believe in our responsibility to support them while also supporting one another. WE WILL be team-players, ready to act against behavior inconsistent with our values, committed to our mission and supportive of one another and our loved ones.

Nick Seniuk, CDR
Commanding Officer